On Monday last, in consequence of the requisition published in our last week's paper, there was the greatest meeting of the Gentlemen, Clergy, Merchants and others, ever assembled in this borough. The Moot-Hall being found incapable of containing them, the Mayor adjourned the Meeting to the choir of the Parish Church. Upwards of four thousand persons were present, who unanimously testified their attachment to the King and Constitution of this country by adopting the declaration of the Bankers &c. of London. . . . Before the meeting broke up, "God save the King" was sung twice, in most excellent time, accompanied by the organ. The meeting was then dissolved and the town's band of music accompanied the Mayor and several other gentlemen, who repeated "God save the King" at the Market Cross and several other places. The effigy of TOM PAINE (properly labelled and holding a pair of stays in one hand and his Rights of Man in the other) was carried through the principal streets in the afternoon, having a halter round his neck, and severely whipped by a cartman who followed. In the evening he was hanged at the Market Cross, and afterwards thrown into a large bonfire, amidst the shouts of the surrounding multitude.

THE MILITARY FESTIVAL of the West Riding Corps of Gentlemen Volunteers, assembled in this place last week, commenced on Tuesday, with extreme pleasantry and good humour, and ended on Friday with great eclat. So gratifying was the treat to every loyal subject, that it will not be easily forgotten. The different corps that met on this occasion (consisting of about eleven hundred men) were the Leeds, Halifax, Wakefield, Bradford and Huddersfield; the first commanded by Col. Lloyd; the 2^d by Col. Hamer; the 3d by Major Tottenham; the 4th by Col. Busfeild; and the 5th by Major Sir George Armytage, Bart. A Chaplain and surgeon attended each corps, and the Halifax and Bradford had both of them two field pieces.

On Wednesday the different regiments marched to Chapeltown Moor, where they went through a variety of manœuvres, much to their own honor and to the satisfaction of their officers and a very great number of spectators.

On Thursday (Gen. Tottenham, who was to have inspected them, being indisposed) they were reviewed at the same place by Gen. Cameron, who expressed himself highly gratified with their soldier-like appearance, and their different military movements.

Of this pleasing review it is impossible for us to give our readers an adequate description, for there were present about three hundred carriages, an immense number of people on horseback, and not less than sixty thousand astonished and delighted spectators; notwithstanding which it was unattended with any accident whatever. Three troops of the West Riding Yeomanry Cavalry were also upon the Moor, and added much to the grandeur of this beautiful military spectacle! On Friday morning the several corps returned home (decorated with branches of oak as emblematical of the day), and as they marched out of town they received the shouts and applause of a surrounding multitude.

The town has been so much crowded with genteel and fashionable company during the week, that on Wednesday evening Mr. Lever's concert at our Music Hall was attended by upwards of 700 ladies and gentlemen; and there was also on Thursday, at the Rooms, the most brilliant assembly ever remembered in this place, and an overflowing Theatre!
